

Psychological Services

We would like to introduce you to the range of psychological services we have at HRA. Our goal is to give you and your child the supports and tools to manage life's challenges. We provide assessment and intervention services for preschool and school age children.

Therapeutic Services include:

- Individual therapy to include cognitive, behavioral, and play interventions
- Family therapy
- Group therapy for all levels of development
- Study Skills and Organizational Strategies
- Social Skills Groups

Assessment Services for:

- Children with Attention Deficit
- Children with Autism Spectrum Disorders
- Children with Attention Deficit Disorders
- Behavior Management
- Social/Emotional Development
- Academic needs, including reading, writing, and math deficits
- Neurocognitive functioning

May include:

- School-based observation
- Parent interview
- Collection of teacher and collateral information
- Psychoeducational testing
- Direct testing including computerized attentional measures
- Cognitive/Intellectual assessment
- Functional/Adaptive strengths
- Parent and Child Clinical Interview

All assessments will include specific, individualized recommendations for home, school, and community.

We welcome the opportunity to work with you and your child. We will find your child's strengths and develop an effective program to meet his/her needs. We use state of the art, computerized measures, coupled with motivating age-appropriate activities, and therapeutic books and games.
